WOMEN'S AND GENDER STUDIES GRADUATE CERTIFICATE

A strong and viable women's and gender studies program (WGS) is essential to Illinois State University's mission to provide a high-quality liberal arts education. The graduate certificate program enhances any graduate degree by integrating with the student's field(s) of study a working analysis of gender as it intersects with class, sexuality, race, ethnicity, ability, age, nationality, and transnationality.

The graduate certificate in women's and gender studies is an option for students whose interest in women's and gender issues leads them toward particular courses and thesis topics in their department/school, and who wish to seek further work in interdisciplinary feminist theory and methods.

The graduate certificate is a perfect match for social work students interested in social issues that affect women, children, and families daily. The topics explored in the WGS graduate certificate relate directly to their practice and help increase cultural competency.

The WGS program teaches students to recognize the intricacies of power and oppression and the various social institutions that hold barriers to equality in place. This encourages social work students to understand more fully the obstacles that many of their clients face daily. The WGS certificate curriculum is an excellent way to start the process of breaking these barriers, empowering their clients, and providing them with the skills they need to succeed.

MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT

Students will work with both the social work advisor and the women's and gender studies advisor to ensure that completion of the program requirements are fulfilled for both the master's in social work (MSW) degree and the graduate certificate in women's and gender studies.

The School of Social Work (SWK) and the women's and gender studies program agree to collaborate to direct nine of the 12 credit hours of course work to fulfill both the MSW degree requirements and the graduate certificate in women's and gender studies. This is intended to facilitate students who would like to concurrently complete the MSW degree and the graduate certificate in women's and gender studies.

The shared nine credit hours will include:

- The School of Social Work will accept six credit hours from the WGS certificate curriculum as electives in the MSW curriculum. The six credit hours will include WGS 490 Feminist Theories and Methodological Issues and one other course from the listing of social work-approved WGS elective courses.
- The women's and gender studies program may accept three credit hours from either Advanced Practicum I (SWK 498.03) or Advanced Practicum II (SWK 498.04) as an elective. The director or advisor in the women's and gender studies program must approve that the practicum setting and work is relevant to the graduate certificate.

In addition to these agreements, students will need to complete one additional elective for the certificate.

REQUIRED COURSE FOR THE WGS GRADUATE CERTIFICATE

WGS 490: Feminist Theories and Methodological Issues An interdisciplinary study of methods, theories, analyses, and critiques by feminist scholars to study feminist issues within and across a range of traditional disciplines.
